Announcement

TROUTBECK NURSERY is an outgrowth of Colonel Spingarn's private collection of Clematis, which now includes about two hundred species and varieties. This collection was formed for his own pleasure and for scientific study of the genus, but as a result of several hundred requests he has decided to share it with others so far as surplus stock permits. We have as yet no printed price-list, but we shall be glad to receive lists of desiderata from Clematis enthusiasts. We have several thousand tested and untested seedlings and larger plants of the small-flowering species; but we ~~shall not have any~~ ^{only a small} surplus stock of the large-flowering hybrids for a year or so. In order to avoid bookkeeping, we shall in all cases ask for cash with order. But we regard ourselves not merely as a nursery but as a bureau of information in regard to Clematis, and we shall be delighted to answer the questions of all enquirers.
